
Islam in Dominica

The Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) once prophesized: "The Last Day will not come until Islam has entered every house on earth, whether it is made of animal skins or from the earth."

Dominica, a small island in the Caribbean's Lesser Antilles (south east West Indies, not to be confused with the Dominican Republic) is home to some 70,000 people. It is inhabited primarily by people of West African descent and is home to one of the few remaining 'Carib' (indigenous) communities in the Caribbean. Dominica is a tall, rugged, windward island with a very traditional lifestyle. It is worlds away from the hustle and bustle of say, New York or London, however, they both have something in common: the growth of Islam.
